I. Introduction

Dauwens & Beernaert Gallery is pleased to present 'Sirens' a group show featuring works by Berlinde De Bruyckere, an installation by A.F. Vandevorst and recent works by young emerging artists from Belgium, Germany, France, Colombia, Czech Republic and the UK.

On view until 31 October 2015 the exhibition takes its name from the encyclopaedia definition of a siren.

Siren

noun /'saɪrən/

1. a device that makes a long loud sound as a signal or warning
2. (in ancient Greek stories) any of a group of sea creatures that were part woman and part bird, or part woman and part fish, whose beautiful singing made sailors sail towards them into rocks or dangerous waters
3. a woman who is very attractive or beautiful but also dangerous
4. siren voices/song/call (literary) the temptation to do something that seems very attractive but that will have bad results

The group exhibition investigates the duality between absence and presence, poetry and violence and representations of women in contemporary art: from muse and source of inspiration, to powerful victim and vulnerable heroine.
